HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

A Column Dedicated To Tired Mothers As They Join The Home Circle At Evening Tide.

Making Homes.

How true it is as the Milwaukee Journal expresses it, that in family life, in the real home, the highest qualities of character may be developed. There is a force in family affection that makes and keeps the heart tender to all. It banishes selfishness, jealousy and malice. In happy home life cruelty finds no place. Even animals feel the benefit of the tender heart. We need, and need greatly, more good will to all with whom we have to do. We need to know how to make allowances for failures in others to make concessions to the wishes and conveniences of others. The friendly give and take of family life tends to make one more fitted for living in the community.

Happy, well-ordered homes are the foundations of society, a solid basis on which to build a state. Home making is something beyond and superior to mere housekeeping. It is a high calling. It requires noble traits of character and fine executive ability and real wisdom. The responsibility of the home making does not devolve on one alone. Every member of the family has his or her share. Friends are dear, strangers have a certain claim on us, but the members of our family are nearer and dearer. Give of your love, your help, your sympathy and comfort to your own family first and most. Those with happy homes are more able to give from the heart to others in need. No one can tell how far the influence of a happy home will go.

Don't be cross and hateful because everything in the world don't move to suit you. Of course you are a great deal smarter than any one else, and are justly entitled to more recognition. While you are fully aware of your attainments your neighbor, who is dull of comprehension, has not found out that you are more than an ordinary individual. You have doubtless told him different more than once, yet in his dullness he has failed to comprehend the many brilliant points you know yourself to be possessed of. So do not kick because you are not appreciated. The best thing you can do is to get a divorce from your big head, come down from your high perch, and be a sensible everyday American.

The Gladness Of Nature.

It is our opinion that the new year ought to begin with spring. That sweet, fresh, budding season, when the spirit of newness is just awakening from its long sleep and begins with magic power its work of revival, breathing new life and energy into every vein of nature and thrilling the heart of mankind with new joys, new hopes, new aspirations. The soul that can remain insensible to the charm of spring is indeed dull and heavy even unnatural. Hawthorne says, "From such a soul the world must hope no reformation of its evil, no sympathy with the lofty faith and gallant struggles of those who contend in his behalf." How joyously the birds are singing this morning and why should they not, for the blight, and decay of winter is passing away, and ere long the earth will be arrayed in the full bloom and glory of springtime. Already the air, so soft and balmy, bears the fragrance of delicate blossoms, and the drowsy bee murmurs of newborn delights. Bryant says in his poem on "The Gladness of Nature": Is this a time to be cloudy and sad, When our Mother Nature laughs around, When even the deep blue heaven looks glad And gladness breathes from the blossoming ground?" Surely our hearts should respond to the gladness of nature, and we should not only be glad, but we should feel deeply thankful for all these blessings. For are they not but so many expressions of divine love and tenderness?

A Collection Of Don'ts.

Don't turn away a child when he comes to you for comfort and sympathy in a childish grievance and then expect him to love you and confide in you when he reaches difficulties of mature life.

Don't let the cares of the work-a-day world absorb all your sweetness and strength. Take time to be young with the children, to romp with them to rejoice with them, to read with them to love them.

Don't become careless in your dress. Adorn yourself for your husband; give him the happiness of finding a lovely woman, as well as a loving woman and a good housekeeper.

Don't make the mistake of believing that you are too handsome or too ugly to be benefitted by careful grooming and dressing.

Don't worry. Work, do your very best, and having done that, laugh away the difficulties to be met and enjoy the rest and happiness you have earned.

Don't be cross to the children. It distracts your husband; it makes you prematurely old and ugly.

Don't make too many points of difference with a child. Remember the cardinal virtues, be firm in teaching these, but be blind to the little faults and foolishness that time will cure without constant fretting on your part.

Don't wear a frowning face about the house. A mother's smile is the sunshine of the home.

Don't send a child who is afraid into the dark alone. Bear with his infirmity considerably and tenderly until he outgrows it.

Don't forget that children learn by asking questions, and they have a right to sensible answers.

Don't forget that what seems very foolish to you may be of vital importance to your child.

Don't laugh at a child's fears and fancies; try to understand them. If they are false, try to show him the truth.

Don't sacrifice the home to an exaggerated sense of neatness. The home is for the inmates and it cannot be enjoyed if a displaced book or chair calls forth a storm of reproach.

THREE YEARS' SAVINGS

Of Herself and Husband Used By Woman To Kindle a Fire.

Alliance, Ohio, May 24.—Mrs. Rosa Cfeher wishes she and her husband had invested their three years' savings, $650, in liberty loan bonds. Last night she placed three $100 bills, six $50 and five $10 bills in a handkerchief under her pillow. To-day she unintentionally gathered up the handkerchief along with some newspapers, and used it to start a furnace fire. Not even the ashes of the currency remained.

That is what happens to people who do not deposit their money in bank.
